GENERAL MAP SITE

The Volcano Centre is a museum devoted to volcanology, first built in 1992. It was the brainchild of two famous volcanologists, Maurice and Katia Kraft. Ideally situated on the road which leads up to Piton de la Fournaise, the Volcano Centre is an opportunity for visitors to learn all about Reunion's geological heritage, with emphasis placed on both science and culture. Renovation work started in 2010, and the museum reopened as the City of Volcanology in 2014 with a newly-improved museum lay-out and extra technological features enabling a real immersion into the wonderful world of volcanoes.
